Interim Country Director
Oxfam in Pakistan*

MESSAGE OF THE INTERIM COUNTRY DIRECTOR

Violence against women and girls is termed as a “Shadow Pandemic,” the causes and effects of which remain hidden in many societies. The stigma associated with it means that mentioning it in public is seen as shameful, and reporting it is deemed as against societal norms. This has also tenaciously affected the way in which women and girls can access justice in the country where millions lack understanding and awareness of their fundamental rights. In turn, it has serious consequences in exacerbating Gender-Based Violence against women and girls, who are silenced from reporting incidences to local law enforcement agencies and have inadequate awareness about the Protection Mechanisms. The few that are able to access remedial services are often met with complicated, timely and costly legal procedures that could act as a deterrent to finding immediate support and protection. When close family members are involved in violence and abuse, this becomes even more challenging.

Undoubtedly, it is a long journey towards an equal and non-discriminatory society where women and girls are treated with utmost reverence for their capabilities and are given the space and agency to make their own decisions. Surrounded by frequent abuse, violence and unequal treatment, the safe spaces for women are shrinking; with many finding their own homes to be unsafe, including in Pakistan.

Pakistan is amongst the countries that have ratified international treaties and optional protocols for the peace, fulfillment and equality for women and children. Despite signing these treaties and having new and existing laws and policies in place, Pakistan still ranks in the lowest rungs of the ladder when it comes to gender equality.

Recently, Oxfam’s project titled “Creating Spaces to Take Action on Violence against Women and Girls,” provided us with an opportunity to develop a resource directory of Essential Services operating in Punjab, that provide an immediate response, shelter and legal aid to survivors. The directory maps out the contact information of essential services that are available and functional in various districts of Punjab, including but not limited to hospitals, police stations, shelter homes and crisis centres, legal aid services, NGOs and helplines of government institutions. In addition, those helplines of federal institutions that are applicable to provinces are also documented for easy access.

Oxfam in Pakistan acknowledges and appreciates the support of Legal Aid Society in helping us map and document relevant information for this booklet, to allow for greater ease in understanding and dissemination. We extend our gratitude to Punjab Women Protection Authority, who assisted us in realising the need for a referral document, and for taking up the responsibility of updating the information as necessary going forward. This directory will be used as a resource for all our communities and institutions, to ensure that information pertaining to essential services is easily accessible to all citizens in the province.

Ms. Kaneez Fatima Chaddar,
Chairperson
Punjab Women Protection Authority

MESSAGE OF THE CHAIRPERSON

It is my immense pleasure to state that the Government of Punjab is committed and focused on the protection of marginalized sections of society, especially the women in distress and the need for protection. The Punjab Women Protection Authority has been established with an exclusive mandate to establish and govern the Women Protection System in Punjab. A state of the art Violence Against Women Centre is working in Multan. This center is providing 24/7 services (Medical, Police FIR, Mediation, Psychological Counseling, and Rehabilitation) to women survivors of violence. Further, four more VAWC will be established in the Districts of Faisalabad, Rawalpindi, Bahawalpur, and Lahore.

The Authority has developed linkages and partnerships with National and International Organisations for strengthening the capacity focusing on improved service delivery and monitoring system.

The particular research had been initiated in collaboration with Oxfam. The objective of this research is to map the existing services of both the public and private sectors, which are providing services to the women victims of violence in Punjab. This document will facilitate the public at large for identifying/locating the services to address gender-based violence issues in their particular areas.

I appreciate the response and efforts of the Oxfam in Pakistan and Legal Aid Society for their technical support in carrying out this research. I am hopeful that this research report will enable us to well-coordinated and integrated efforts to address the issue of gender-based violence in Punjab.

In the end, I want to thank Miss Isma Sana, Program Manager at Oxfam in Pakistan, OXFAM, and Miss Nazish Brohi, consultant and her team, my team of PWPA, Irshad Waheed, Director General, PWPA, Muneeza Manzoor Butt, Manager VAWC, Multan and Muhmmad Naeem for their support in this task.

Thank You Very Much.

Justice Nasir Aslam Zahid,
Chairperson
Legal Aid Society

MESSAGE OF THE CHAIRPERSON

Access to justice for women and girls has remained a multi-faceted issue with social and cultural challenges which limit their mobility and capacity to access essential services. Women are often unable to travel to courts or police stations on their own. There are deeply entrenched notions of shame and stigma attached to being a victim of SGBV and victims are expected to accept such treatment or face social banishment. Women are less able to navigate the formal justice system than their male counterparts. Low literacy bolstered by a lack of legal literacy make women and girls less aware of their rights and as a result, less able to access them. The lack of an effective legal aid system further compounds the distraught situation of victims. While several pro-women laws specifically related to SGBV now exist, their implementation is extremely weak. Many women, once they have reported a case, are particularly vulnerable to violence and are in urgent need of support in terms of shelter, protection, medical care and legal aid. In such cases, there is no system, standard operating procedure or cohesive plan of action to provide them with the support they need.

The Directory of Support Services for Women and Girls Experiencing Violence and Abuse is the result of a collaboration between OXFAM in Pakistan, Punjab Women Protection Authority and the Legal Aid Society. Support was also provided by the Shaikh Ahmad Hassan School of Law (SAHSOL), Lahore University of Management Sciences. The efforts of the students of the Gender Clinic of SAHSOL in the collection of data are appreciated.

The Directory is built upon a multipronged approach and is developed on the basis of district-level data collection, local knowledge, practices and demands from across Punjab. It is hoped this resource will translate into a sustainable toolkit which will assist service providers in connecting victims and survivors of SGBV with timely and high quality essential services for the protection of their rights and to assist them advance towards accessing and realizing justice.

INTRODUCTION

This resource directory is a product of the project titled “Creating Spaces to Take Action on Violence Against Women and Girls” This project is undertaken with the financial support of the Government of Canada, provided through Global Affairs Canada. The project aims to reduce Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG) and Child, Early and Forced Marriages (CEFM) and is being implemented across 9 districts of Punjab and Sindh. This directory is a joint product of a collaboration between Oxfam in Pakistan, Legal Aid Society and the Punjab Women Protection Authority and has been developed to support Women and Girls who have experienced violence by increasing their agency and ability to access the police, shelter and medical facilities, legal and psychosocial support and other essential services in the districts of Faisalabad, Gujrat, Kasur, Lahore, Rawalpindi, and Sialkot in Punjab (hereinafter referred to as ‘Selected Districts’).

The primary target audience are survivors of VAWG and CEFM, however, the resource directory is also intended to assist stakeholders and partners including key line ministries, civil society organisations, international and regional organisations and academia, others seeking to improve the quality of and access to coordinated and multi-sectoral services for all women and girls.

USER'S GUIDE

The services listed in this resource directory have been verified by extensive fieldwork and data collection and are deemed as being relevant, accessible, functional and responsive to the immediate needs of survivors of VAWG and CEFM in the Selected Districts. The composition of the services is presented in a concise and user-friendly manner.

Essential service providers are listed through district-wise compartmentalization in the following order: police, hospitals, shelters, legal aid service providers, civil society organisations and other government service providers. Details of addresses, contact/focal persons, telephone numbers and operational hours are listed along with the mention of, where applicable, the existence of referral services and other support mechanisms.

Federal, provincial, and district level helplines are also included.

Color coded legends are used as indications of additional services provided by organisations such as Follow-up Services, Referral Services, Psychosocial Support and Legal Aid Services. The key for the legends is presented on the next page.

An organisation/institute providing referral pathways and linkages to other service providers and organisations for essential services including but not limited to legal aid, shelter and medical services.

● Psychosocial Support

An organisation/institute providing direct psychosocial support services which aim to address psychological and social needs of victims and survivors.

● Legal Aid Services

An organisation/institute providing direct legal aid and advisory services including legal awareness and legal representation.

INSTITUTIONAL OVERVIEW

The majority of service providers listed in this resource directory provide their services free of cost. All police related services (police stations, complaint cells, human rights cells, women police stations) are formally free for all citizens, including women. All government hospitals and basic health units provide services either completely free of cost or for token amounts. All government-run as well as private shelters provide free services for women survivors of violence. The free services include lodging, food and other basic services. The only service for which there is some formal payment involved is legal aid. While some organisations offer it completely free of charge, others charge a low-cost amount to cover subsidized lawyer's fee or court costs. Almost all the service providers in Punjab are accessible by public transport, with the exception of some police stations in far flung areas. All of the women help desks are working 9 to 5 in the mapped districts, although the regular police stations are accessible 24 hours. All of the government hospitals are also working 24 hours except for the District Headquarters Hospital, and Government Sardar Begam Teaching Hospital Rehmat Pura of Sialkot District. Some of the NGOs, women help desks, and shelter homes in Punjab have formal referral systems in terms of providing legal aid and psychosocial support to women and all other NGOs, community-based organisations and activists say that they use informal networks for referrals and use their personal contact network to address women's requirements on a case to case basis.

HELPLINES

There have been a number of helplines set up in Pakistan in the recent past. Given the dearth of information and outreach in Pakistan, helplines are an important idea for disseminating information and for providing referrals, though they are not well known and widely used.

In Punjab, the Punjab Commission on the Status of Women set up a helpline in 2014 with the number '1043'. It had a dual focus processing and referring cases, and providing information, backed up by a number of lawyers.

The Federal Ministry of Human Rights has also set up its own helpline, '1099'. It claims to have over two hundred lawyers associated with it.

POLICE

Punjab Police has established Women Help Desks in every district of Punjab and posted women police officers in most of the police stations to deal with women-related issues. All of the complaints are entered into the Central Complaint Management System (CMS). A unique number is issued to the complainant after the registration of the complaint and it is monitored by Senior Supervisory Officers and a Provincial Monitoring Room located in the Central Police Office in Lahore. The Police Station Record Management System (PSRMS) is installed at the Police Station Level to register FIRs and the daily progress of cases. Once an FIR is registered into the system, the supervisory officer can check the status of the case and obtain the necessary information through the system. The Inspector General of Punjab has introduced the mechanism of "E-Complaints" which is accessible through the Punjab Police Website and a helpline number where citizens can lodge complaints about Non-Registration of FIRs, faulty investigations, illegal detentions, arrests of innocent persons, registration of false FIRs etc.

HOSPITALS AND MEDICAL SERVICES

Medico-legal examinations are primarily carried out at tertiary government hospitals in Punjab. Some state-owned hospitals and those under public/private partnership in Gujrat, Sialkot and Lahore charge for services, but it is a subsidized amount. The Punjab Government established the 1st DNA analysis Laboratory of Pakistan in the Centre for Applied Molecular Biology (CAMB) in Lahore 2002 and set up the country's first comprehensive forensic laboratory and the Punjab Forensic Science Agency, which starting from 2012 dealt with forensic investigations of cases. It has crime and death scene analyses capacity, DNA and serology, computer forensics, trace evidence and toxicology among others. There are two MLOs in every district hospital of Punjab, one man and one woman, who are to remain available on call. Punjab has a more streamlined pay structure in the medico-legal system with a set fee for post-mortem and MLO reports. However, almost all medico-legal officers are ordinary medical officers and lack specialist training in forensic medicine.

SHELTER HOMES AND CRISIS CENTRES

Punjab has the strongest response infrastructure for shelter in the country. There is an operational Darul Aman shelter in every district, with a total of 35 such shelters run by the provincial government. The Darul Amans and other shelters have established Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) which are known to the shelter staff, and are posted on the administering Social Welfare Department's website. The SOPs for these shelters are responsive to women's needs and sensitivities involved. While shelters provide short-term solutions, they are generally not equipped to deal with emergencies. For that, the federal government initiated crisis centers (Shaheed Benazir Crisis Centers for Women - SBCCW) which were intended to house women for 2-3 days to provide assistance in emergencies before moving onto shelters. They were meant to be open and functioning 24/7. There are 12 SBCCWs in Punjab – in Bahawalpur, Dera Ghazi Khan, Faisalabad, Muzaffargarh, Khushab, Lahore, Multan, Rawalpindi, Sahiwal, Mianwali, Sialkot and Vehari.

LEGAL AID SERVICE PROVIDERS

Legal Aid Service Providers refers to organisations/institutes which provide pro bono and/or lo bono legal assistance, advice and representation before courts and administrative forums for resolution of disputes. Legal Aid Committees notified by Bar Councils and Associations in addition to District Legal Empowerment Committees created by the Law and Justice Commission of Pakistan in 2011, remains largely dysfunctional as a result of which the void in service provision are met to some extent by not-for-profit organisations.

CIVIL SOCIETY ORGANISATIONS

Civil Society in Punjab comprises of schools, universities, advocacy groups, cultural institutions, non-governmental organisations and activists who are engaged in developmental and relief initiatives. Together they play an active role in strengthening community networks and institutions to enhance efficiency and effectiveness in developmental efforts, increase accountability between local administrations and community organisations. They also ensure 'inclusion' and a 'participatory approach' across efforts to engage everyone in the community development process irrespective of gender, disability or any other difference or impediment. Examples of prominent NGOs include Thali, Kashf Foundation and Punjab Rural Support Program that addresses poverty, economic empowerment, and gender equality. The AGHS Legal Aid Cell was founded in 1980 to provide free legal representation for vulnerable women, children, bonded labourers, people in prison and religious minorities. Civil Society has played a critical role in amplifying the range of essential services provided by the State, to combat GBV and improve survivors' access to justice and relevant sexual and reproductive health services.

GOVERNMENT ORGANISATIONS

Government Organisations are important elements of the State machinery setup through legislative or executive action, to administer and oversee specific functions. Government Organisations in Punjab have adopted key international sustainable goals to ensure gender equality and provision of human rights. The Women Development Department of Punjab established a toll-free helpline to deal with cases of harassment, gender discrimination, property and inheritance disputes and domestic violence. The department has also established working women's hostels in Bahawalpur, DG Khan, Faisalabad, Guranjwala, Lahore, Multan, Muzafargarh, Rahim yar Khan, Rawalpindi, Sahiwal, Sargodha, and Vehari to empower and support women. Punjab has a vast network of Darulamans (shelter homes); currently, all 36 districts have the facility of a Darulaman and can accommodate 20 to 50 residents at a time. The Punjab Women Protection Authority; set up in 2017; promotes social, economic, political and legal development of women by focusing on legislative and policy initiatives.

METHODOLOGY & LIMITATIONS

LAS developed a data form to map and collect information from police stations, hospitals, health care centres, shelters homes, legal aid service providers, civil society organisations and government organisations working on Gender and Sexual Based Violence, Early Child Marriages and Forced Marriages in Selected Districts. Staff from the LAS visited each institution/organisation for on-site observations and assessments before inclusion in the directory. The visits were conducted prior to the outbreak of COVID-19 during the months of February and March 2020. In person data collection was suspended at the end of March 2020 due to the pandemic, which is the reason for limited data for legal aid service providers in Faisalabad, Gujrat, Kasur, and Sialkot, relevant government organizations in Kasur, and Gujrat.
